Eyre Peninsula Wild Coast & Wildlife Way

Streaky Bay → Whyalla, SA ★ 580+ km ★ 7+ days ★ Any season

The wild edges of Eyre Peninsula are wedged between the Spencer Gulf, the Southern Ocean and the Great Australian Bight, so no wonder there is so much marine life.

We've given you 7+ days for this trip, but our ambassadors spent 71 days kayaking, snorkelling, swimming, tasting and adventuring through every coastal town and national park.

What makes this such an awesome destination? Perhaps it's the scrumptious seafood, renowned fishing and wildlife encounters. If you are caravanning or camping, it has to be the number of ocean camps.

There's over 60 of them, most budget priced or free and plenty are pet-friendly (our ambassadors' average spend was $7.20 a night). Add in waterside caravan parks - we even found a roadside farm stall selling fresh bread!

If you travel with your pet, you're going to love it, too - as there are so many pet-friendly oceanfront camps and parks.

Here is a west-to-east run from Streaky Bay around to Whyalla like we did coming off the Nullarbor. Simply turn it around if you're travelling from Adelaide or the Yorke Peninsula.

Watch us talk about this route on our Blog: www.campsaustraliawide.com/best-camps-and-caravan-parks-in-south-australias-eyre-peninsula

Highlights

- ✓ Budget beachfront camping and jetties for views, with swimming, snorkelling, fishing and rockpools
- ✓ Australian sea lions, giant cuttlefish, fur seals, seahorses, leafy seadragons, koalas, birds, Southern Right Whales, great white cage dives and wildflowers
- ✓ Seafood, fishing fleets and Coffin Bay oysters
- ✓ Epic Eyre national parks

Tips

Spring or autumn: settled seas. Winter: Southern right whales, oysters, cuttlefish and koala camping. Summer: swimming and beach days, but book ahead as December and January are peak season, and watch the wind.

Eyre Peninsula's magic keeps rolling on this leg, with more jetties, playgrounds, seals and Australian sea lions, so try to squeeze in a few sunsets along the way.

If you have time, spend a night at Lipson Cove. Kangaroos, seals and dolphins are regular visitors, and if you're lucky you might even spot a penguin. Budget price tag, million dollar views!

Next up is Port Neill, with another jetty (we never get sick of them!), a lookout, lovely beaches, a foreshore caravan park and a town sign that's sure to make you smile.

Arno Bay has a mangrove boardwalk, hotel, a ripper sunset and a lovely family-run park with something on every day of the week. There are Sunday pancake breakfasts, Saturday BBQs, movie nights and fresh roses for your rig. Kids will love the public jumping pillow, playground, jetty and beach.

Point Gibbon is a favourite camp for our travellers, where you can spot Australian sea lions within easy walking distance. Port Gibbon has tons of ocean sites as well.

At Cowell we picnicked next to the friendly old Cowell Hotel. This town is full of history, and you may want to try their Franklin Harbour oysters and check out the silo art.

Must see and do

* Lipson Cove: kayak across to Lipson Island in calm weather
* Jetties and camping at Port Neill and Arno Bay
* Cowell: pub, oysters, Franklin Harbour foreshore, water park, silo art, jade jewellery, Mangrove boardwalk
* Australian sea lions and starfish at Point Gibbon
* Fishing
